BRYAN HARDWICK

Republican Club Elects New Board

The Peninsula Republican Men's Club, with a membership of 150, has elected Bryan Hardwick to serve as president. Other officers include Vetran Ricca, first vice president; Jim Dahl, second vice president; Bob Burgess, treasurer; Gene LaHusen, recording secretary; and Joe Beerer, corresponding secretary.

Hardwick, president of Bryan Hardwick Associates, advertising and public relations firm, stated, "The Peninsula Republican Men's Club is dedicated to the principles of individualism and not to personalities, and to strengthening and giving unified purpose to the Republican party."

He urged Peninsula Republicans to actively contribute to the club, citing Edmund Burke's statement, "The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing."

Further information is available through Jim Dahl, membership chairman, FR 5-9485.

Ignorance Main Ally Of Cancer

Reporting to a group of local Cancer Society volunteers, Mrs. P. E. Marsh, Centinela Valley South Bay District general chairman, cited fear and ignorance as hampering the society's effectiveness in fighting cancer.

The volunteers, meeting to discuss a campaign to enlighten area residents of cancer developments in the fields of detection and treatment, were informed that early diagnosis is the most effective weapon against the disease.

"THE AMERICAN Cancer Society fights cancer from every angle," stated Mrs. Marsh. "It provides valuable funds for important research, offers service to cancer patients and distributes life-saving literature and free educational films to millions of persons across the country."

"Volunteers to help in the field of cancer education, delivering films to groups and organizations, transporting patients to treatment centers and in many other areas are greatly needed in the area," Mrs. Marsh continued.

Centinela Valley-South Bay residents who can supply any of these services are urged to contact the local office of the American Cancer Society at OR 2-8148.

Four West Students Attend ECC

Four West High students are attending El Camino College this semester under the advanced placement program for high school seniors.

Two of the students, Shirley Loyd and Cynthia Gerardt, have enrolled in a general psychology course. Jane Costerbader is taking calculus, while Melanie Shipley has selected a course in the political and social history of the United States.

The students selected their courses after consultation with counselor Howard Cole at West High and W. H. Smith, student personnel director at El Camino College.
